CITY OF NEW SMYRNA BEACH

210 Sams Avenue • New Smyrna Beach, FL 32168 • (386) 424-2100

Welcome to New Smyrna Beach, one of the oldest and most charming cities in the United States of America!

With miles of white sandy beach, we are noted for sun bathing, surfing, and water sports. The close proximity to Ponce Inlet and the inland waterways provides a haven for boating, fishing and eco-tourism. In addition to our beautiful beaches and waterways, our seaside community proudly offers recreational activities for families and visitors of all ages, including parks, playgrounds, golfing, tennis, and shuffleboard.

We have two historic districts with dining, shopping, antique stores and art galleries. The Canaveral National Seashore Park borders our city on the south and many historical sites are nearby and west of the city. New Smyrna Beach is home to the Atlantic Center for the Arts, a world renowned, nonprofit arts education facility.

Our hospitality industry continues to thrive as many of our restaurants are noted for their exquisite cuisine, seafood specialties and appreciation of wine. For those visitors requiring overnight accommodations, we offer quaint bed and breakfast lodging, condos and hotels.

When all these good attributes are combined you wind up with a community that is geared to family style living, where you can enjoy the sand and surf in a relaxed atmosphere for a weekend, a week, a season or a lifetime.

Sincerely, Russ Owen, Mayor

A LOST LANDMARK

Here is a local landmark that most never had the chance to see, The Ocean House.

The home was first built by Edmond Kirby Lowd and his wife Victoria Sheldon Lowd in 1868 as a boarding house. You may remember Victoria Sheldon, we had a theater in town named after her in the building that is now the home to Little Drug Co. The building still hosts her name near the top. The Lowd family eventually sold the boarding house to Francis W. "Capt. Frank" Sams and his wife Zelia Sheldon Sams who then added two wings to the boarding house eventually expanding it to 50 rooms.

The Ocean House became a winter hunting and fishing destination of choice and a focal point in the community. With an unspoiled view to the East, it was featured on post cards and photos of the local area for years.

Today the area between Canal Street and Julia Street along Riverside Drive is the approximate location of the old Ocean House.

If there was a location where the first people of real prominence in early New Smyrna seem to intersect, it would be the Ocean House. Names like Sheldon, Lowd, Sams, Faulkner, and Wilson are now the names of our streets and have their names and initials prominently displayed on historic local landmarks like our New Smyrna Museum of History. In his book "Images of America, New Smyrna Beach" Lawrence Sweett shares that "The hotel died the death of old buildings and new times and was torn down in 1946". Two statues that formerly stood at the entrance to the sidewalk that led up to the Ocean House, the fox and cat, were said to have been crafted in France in the late 1800's, and gifted to Sams. Frank Sams son Murray Sams, who had inherited the Ocean House, later gave the statues to Rollins College in 1934 where they took on a life of their own. The President of Rollins College at the time, Hamilton Holt, who was inspired by the statues formed a "Cat Society" for women and a "Fox Society" for men. According to the Rollins Archives, these societies were exclusive groups made up of four women and four men each, elected by an annual vote of the student body. The women elected the foxes; the men elected the cats. These privileged members were the only people permitted to touch the statues. But occasionally, the fox and cat were taken and hidden as practical jokes. The year 1949 was tragic because the cat statue was smashed beyond repair. To this day, the crime remains unsolved. The fox statue remains a historic icon of Fox Day at Rollins College. Images are courtesy of The Sweett Family Collection, and The New Smyrna Museum of History's Sheldon Research Library.

MARY S. HARRELL BLACK HERITAGE MUSEUM

The Mary S. Harrell Black Heritage Museum is the cornerstone of the Historic West Side Community in New Smyrna Beach, Florida. The museum resides in the old Sacred Heart/St. Rita church building, constructed in 1899.

The museum displays a rich and varied collection of photos, oral histories, and memorabilia that tell the story of the people who live here. The collection educates citizens and students about the history and race relations in small town Florida over the course of the twentieth century. The oral histories and photographs speaks of the hardships and triumphs of this African community from the early 1900's to the present. These personal accounts of daily life make history come alive for young and old.

Mary S. Harrell, founder of the museum, knew the value of preserving history. She once stated "Slavery and discrimination may be ugly, but the stories of the past, both good and bad, need to be told. I want the children to know that was life then, and if you're not careful, you'll slip right back to it".

Pet Friendly

When we say New Smyrna Beach is perfect for the whole family, we mean it. On our barrier island, every good boy (and girl) can come along on vacation. From lodging to restaurants to parks, our area rolls out the welcome mat for our four-legged friends.

No matter what type of accommodations you're looking for, there's a pet-friendly option available. Many of our area bed and breakfasts, hotels, motels, and condominiums allow man's best friend to spend the night, so there's no need to board your pup back home. However, if you need or want to board your animal during your visit, pet resorts and kennels are available.

Just make sure Buster has all his necessary shots before your trip.

When it's time to chow-down, you can find pet-friendly restaurants all across town. Both Canal Street and Flagler Avenue are lined with eateries that offer pet-friendly patios, gardens, and outdoor spaces. Many restaurant owners will set out water bowls so your pup stays well-hydrated. Others even serve up a little snack, like our historic Dairy Queen, where "doggie sundaes" are on the menu.

THE NEW SMYRNA ODYSSEY MEMORIAL

Located in Riverside Park, the Odyssey Memorial stands twenty-four feet high and was designed by the Xepapas Design Group, led by the late architect Andy Xepapas of the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association (AHEPA) that commemorated the arrival of the early settlers to New Smyrna from Greece, Minorca, Italy and Corsica. The project was completed in the early 2000's with the painting done by the Apostolos Group and Weston Coatings. They also re-painted the memorial in the summer of 2019.

MARINE LIFE

Volusia County's world famous beaches attract millions of visitors each year. The sparkling, white sands of New Smyrna Beach offer a variety of environmentally friendly recreational experiences.

The beaches also are home to hundreds of fascinating plant and animal species. Some animals, such as the loggerhead sea turtle and the piping plover, are threatened with extinction. As a result, they are protected by state and federal laws. To preserve this beautiful natural resource for future generations of beachgoers, all of us must work together to care for and protect this fragile beach ecosystem. From May 1 through Oct. 31, Volusia beaches host an unusual marine visitor -- the sea turtle. These magnificent animals emerge from the surf at night to lay their eggs in nests dug into the dry sand, then return to the sea. Two months later, about a hundred baby turtles or hatchlings emerge from each of these nests and crawl to the ocean. This amazing cycle of Mother Nature is thousands of years old.

Volusia County has taken several steps to protect these gentle creatures. Beach driving and parking is regulated. Vehicles are not allowed west (landward) of the dune conservation zone where sea turtle nests are most common. Night driving and lighting from beach front properties is restricted because the mother turtles and tiny hatchlings are confused by bright lights.

CANAVERAL NATIONAL SEASHORE

Canaveral National Seashore contains nearly 58,000 acres of barrier island, open lagoon, coastal hammock, pine flatwoods, and offshore waters. With 24 miles of pristine beach, it is prime habitat for many threatened and endangered species providing nesting beaches for several thousand protected marine turtles. Two thirds of the park is within Mosquito Lagoon. The lagoon is designated an estuary of national significance and an outstanding Florida water-way. It is one of the most diverse and productive estuaries in North America. The national seashore also contains cultural resources that reflect human history in the Florida peninsula from 2000 BC to early 20th century Florida settlement. Swimming, sunning, surfing and beachcombing are favorite pastimes on this strip of land that time as left untouched.

You may gain entrance to Canaveral National Seashore from south New Smyrna Beach, Apollo beach district or east of Titusville, Playalinda beach district. There are many entry point on the lagoon section of the seashore. For current operating hours and fees see www.nps.gov/cana

A CULINARY PARADISE IN NEW SMYRNA BEACH

By Elisa Hernandez

Once you get past the unique and tricky pronunciation of our city (Nu•Samernah) and appease the locals, you should embark on a culinary adventure to discover the many wonders our charming city has to offer. It's an exciting time for foodies in New Smyrna Beach. The variety of dining options expands each year with restaurants including new and creative recipes in their menus. What makes a dish stand out is always fresh ingredients, a key component in any delicious meal. Freshness is important to many diners which is why you will discover that many NSB eateries offer locally sourced produce, seafood and meats.

Did you know that inside the city limits of New Smyrna there are many small farms that grow fresh and organic produce such as zucchini, squash, corn, kale, kohlrabi, collards, onion, peppers, various types of greens, microgreens, live plants and herbs for the community? These farms also offer local eggs, milk, cheese, poultry, meat, freshly caught seafood and so much more! You can find these delights in our local farmers markets, supermarkets and of course restaurant owners are taking this opportunity to source fresh ingredients to include in their menus.

This is one of the reasons we love this city! Next time you are visiting your favorite spot make sure to check for locally sourced items on the menu. When you do this, you are not only getting a taste of New Smyrna but you help support the local farmers that work all year round to grow delicious, fresh food for everyone.

Breakfast Spots

Whether you want a hearty meal of bacon and eggs or something more inventive like chai banana bread French toast, there's a bounty of breakfast options in New Smyrna Beach.

With two convenient locations, the Wake Up Café offers both traditional American breakfast fare as well as international specialties like alfajores pancakes, an Argentinian dish featuring dulce de leche caramel sandwiched between two buttermilk pancakes and dusted with powdered sugar. It's deliciously decadent.

Over on Flagler Avenue, Third Wave Café serves up brunch in its charming, verdant garden. A variety of crepes, both sweet and savory, are the stars here. Don't forget to try a mimosa or Bloody Mary, the perfect breakfast sidekicks.

More of the grab-and-go type? Stop by Go Juice NSB or the Mason Bar for an acai bowl bursting with color and flavor. Both eateries also offer healthful juices and smoothies, packed with fruits and veggies.

Coffee connoisseurs will want to enjoy a warm cuppa from local favorite, Island Roasters, where you'll find freshly roasted, organic and fair-trade coffees on the board. Warm up with a piping hot café au lait or go the iced route—the baristas use coffee cubes so your beverage still packs a punch after some time in the sun.

ELDORA...ANOTHER PLACE IN TIME

Enjoy a brief stroll through the century old live oaks to the once thriving village of Eldora. Close your eyes as you rock on the porch and imagine the excitement of the arrival of a steamboat, or just absorb a magnificent view of Mosquito Lagoon.

The Eldora State House was built around 1912 on the shore of Mosquito Lagoon and remained in use through the late 1950's. The last family to occupy the house was the Wells' family who vacated the building and moved to Jacksonville in the mid-1950's. In 1989, the non-profit organization Friends of Canaveral, including member T.C. Wilder (head of the steering committee to establish Canaveral National Seashore), started a campaign to raise money to renovate the property. One fundraising event, the Eldora Sampler, was held from the late 1980's until 1997. Finally, the restoration was completed and the Eldora State House "Renovation Completion Celebration" was held on May 22, 1999. The following day the house opened to visitors.

Friends of Canaveral still hold events at the house, including the annual Holiday Open House at Eldora. For more information visit www.friendsofcanaveral.com.

PONCE DELEON INLET LIGHTHOUSE

In 1887 this 175 foot tall lighthouse flashed for the first time. Originally the beacon burned oil which was converted to electricity in the 1920's.

203 steps spiral upward to this great lamp which has a revolving lens made in Paris in 1867. The brilliant light beamed out to sea six times every 26 seconds and was visible some 20 miles out.

The lighthouse rests on a 45 foot wide base with a 12 foot foundation of brick. At the base the structure is 32 feet in diameter and tapers upward 175 feet. Also on this property is a sea museum which was once the head lighthouse keeper's house. Four other buildings lend a view of the past as one building has been restored and furnished in the era of 1890.

Today the lighthouse is open to the public from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. lending a breathtaking view of Ponce Inlet, New Smyrna Beach and the surrounding area. The Lighthouse can only be reached by taking U.S. 1 from New Smyrna, crossing the Dunlawton Bridge in Port Orange and traveling south 6 miles to Ponce Inlet.

For more information, please call (386) 210-3660 or visit www.ponceinlet.org.

New Smyrna Beach offers children hours of fun - whether you like building sandcastles, swimming, surfing, boogie boarding, fishing, exploring, picnicking, and more! Summer Camps hosted by The Marine Discovery Center, Atlantic Center for the Arts, and The HUB on Canal offer children the opportunity for kids to make new memories, meet new people and make lifelong friends. Want to learn how to surf? Jimmy Lane Surfing Academy offers surf lessons to all ages on a daily & weekly basis. YMCA Summer Programs are a great resource for recreational and educational activities to keep children's minds and bodies active when school is out for the summer. For more information on fun for the kids, visit www.visitnsbfl.com/just-for-kids.
